

Amina Hussain

Amina Hussain is Principal Flute of the Manchester Camerata, and has freelanced as an orchestral flute player since leaving the RNCM in 1998. She has worked with many major orchestras across the UK and abroad, and playing numerous orchestral recordings and live broadcasts for radio and television, in both classical and pop. Alongside her career as a stage performer, Amina has worked extensively in community and education, leading creative music-making for social development and wellbeing. Amina is also Co-Director of String of Hearts CIC, which is passionate about connecting older adults through music-making.
